

THE NEW YORK POST, Sunday, March 14, 2010

Michael Goodwin

mgoodwin@nypost.com

SOUL OF GENEROSITY

There is no competition for grace or generosity, but among those who lost a loved one on 9/11, the Lynch family of the Throgs Neck section of The Bronx stands tall.

Jack and Kathleen Lynch are relentless in their devotion to making something good come of the loss of their firefighter son, Michael. Together with their surviving nine children and relatives, friends and supporters, they have raised and given away $1.2 million in college scholarships to children of firefighters and other victims of that horrible day.

They're still going strong, with their eighth annual dinner March 22 at Chelsea Piers. You'll learn more about this extraordinary family and their efforts at www.mlynch.org.